Grafting On Bonte.--Following sequestrotomy and other bone operations much time is often consumed in healing. A few judiciously applied skin grafts will, however, frequently hasten convalescence, although they are less likely to take than under most other circumstances. Even the entire orbit may be lined with epithelium after the removal of a malignant growth, as was successfully done by von Noorden.<sup>28</sup> In some cases, where a smooth, clean surface can be obtained, transplantation may be done at once, although it is often preferable to wait until granulations have appeared, perhaps four to six weeks. When a gutter has been chiseled in the bone, it may be necessary to shove the grafts through quite a small opening, and much difficulty may be experienced in adjusting them smoothly. They may sometimes be held in place by packing the cavity with small pledges...
